Part Time Short Course:

ELECTRONIC MUSIC PRODUCTION

ELECTRONIC MUSIC PRODUCTION

- Cost: R9 535.00

There was an era when music was predominantly recorded on magnetic tape using analogue synthesizers and other equipment. The analogue era produced a lot of great-sounding music, however, it lacked ultimate efficiency. The limited number of tracks that producers had to work with placed constraints on the ideas of creative music minds, requiring planning, long sessions and meticulous recording techniques.

Then came the digital revolution, which has been transformative for music production. It introduced digital audio workstations (DAWs) and MIDI technology, both of which allow for greater flexibility, precision, and experimentation - setting creative music minds loose.

Producers could now edit, manipulate, and arrange music with ease, opening endless new possibilities for music production. These possibilities and more are explored in the ASE's Electronic Music Production short course (EMP).

The curriculum will cover:

- Song creation from concept to final product
- MIDI, interfaces, and DAW theory
- Best recording, editing and mixing practices as well as mastering techniques
- Remixing techniques

Course Highlights:

The rapid growing global market share of Ableton Live makes it the ideal system (alongside Pro Tools) and you will learn it from experts.

You will learn about the composition, recording, editing, mixing, and mastering of electronic music to a high level.
